

PRESERVING WOOD IS OUR BUSINESS.

PRESERVING OUR COMMUNITY'S VALUES IS OUR PRIORITY.

Powering America and our Local Economy.

At Nevada Wood Preserving, we're dedicated to providing needed electrical transmission and distribution line infrastructure in the form of renewable, carbon-neutral wood poles. Our poles are used locally, nationally and internationally to move electrical power from where it is generated, to where it will be used, in the most environmentally sustainable manner available.

We also work hard to power our local economy, by offering many good paying manufacturing jobs, with benefits, to our hard-working employees. Our business also supports many other jobs, including truck drivers, raw material suppliers and service providers. During the recession we have had a stable workforce, unlike many businesses that were forced to have massive layoffs, and to cut their purchases of local goods and services.

NWP has recently changed its production processes in response to community input. We're happy to report that we have already transitioned to a new, low odor carrier oil. Our safety and compliance record is exemplary, and this will continue to be our most important priority. As a hard-working company that brings jobs to many local families and re-invests in our community, we care about your hometown. Because it's our hometown, too.
